Overview of the project:

Migration has to be addressed outside the logic of emergence and improving cooperation on international migration. This aim can be reached by improving migration governance in the countries that have to face this phenomenon. Only in this way we can assure that migration could work as a source of prosperity, innovation and sustainable development.

Migration produces a connection within and across geo-political regions that link countries of origin, transit and destination. In order to cope with this reality and avoid the negative impacts of this phenomenon on all these countries, it is imperative to make an international effort to strengthen the knowledge and understanding of such a complex phenomenon. This includes improving shared policies that can reduce the risks of irregular migration, both for people on the move and for people living in transit and destination countries. Good governance and migration policies can prevent and eradicate smuggling in the context of international migration. They can also avoid migration flows to be used to strengthen instabilities in the countries involved, and to make them more vulnerable from a social and political point of view. According to Global Compact's vision of international migration, it is important to recognize that a comprehensive approach is needed to optimize the overall benefits of migration, while addressing risks and challenges for individuals and communities in all the countries involved.

Wider Objectives:

MIGRANTS project intends to reinforce the institution capacity of Tunisia Higher Education System. Given its geo-political situation, Tunisia can play, in the specific context of Migrations, an important role for itself and for the surrounding countries, including, of course, the EU member states.

In a coherent sense with Global Compact MIGRANTS project promotes a broad multi-stakeholder partnership to address higher education in Migration Studies in Tunisia in all its dimensions by including migrants, diasporas, local communities, civil society, academia, the private sector, parliamentarians, trade unions, national human rights institutions, the media and other relevant stakeholders in migration governance both in the Partner Country and in Europe.

The main objective of MIGRANTS Project is to improve the quality of Tunisian higher education and enhance its relevance for the labour market and society in order to support its capacities in local, international cooperation and global partnerships for safe, orderly and regular migration, in line with national priorities, policies, action plans and strategies, through a whole-of-government and whole-of society approach.

The MIGRANTS project will encourage an inter-disciplinary approach. It will offer students, researchers, graduates, the opportunity to combine study and analysis of critical prospective on migration studies with practical experience and fieldwork thanks to the network of partners such as international agencies, NGOs and association committed with migrations, displaced persons, asylum seekers and refugees governance and policies.
